BATES SHUT OUT BY COLBY IN EXHIBITION GAME AT GARDINER 6-0

DAVIS THE ONLY GARNET PLAYER ABLE TO HIT GATELY—COLBY REGISTERS TEN HITS OFF THREE BATES TWIRLERS

Grounds in Poor Condition and Game Generally Unsatisfactory

Colby won the annual exhibition game at Gardiner from Bates by the score of 6 to 0, last Saturday. And an exhibition game it surely was! The only Bates man to obtain a safe hit from Gately was Davis, while the Bates men played loose ball. The Colby players supported the fine twirling of Gately in good style and obtained ten hits from three Bates boxmen.

The grounds were in poor condition and hampered the fielders in their efforts to put up a good fielding game. Things began to go wrong with the Bates team in the third inning when Harvey was hit on the head with a pitched ball and forced to retire from the game. He attempted to go into the box in the last half of the inning, but was not able to pitch. He had been going good until the accident, the Colby run scored from his delivery being due to a freak home run by Ashworth when the ball went under the left field fence.

Several new men were seen in the lineup, but none of them appeared to be able to break the spell that has kept the Bates team nearly hitless in the Maine series. Hall played a good fielding game at first.

For Colby, Cawley played a good game and the battery work was excellent. The runs scored by Colby included three that were earned, while only one slip-up in the field was scored against the Waterville nine.

Bates had a chance to score in the sixth when the bases were filled on a hit by Davis and walks to Davidson and McDonald with only one out. Duncan ended the inning when he hit into a fast double play. The summary:

BATES DEFEATED BY BOWDOIN AT BRUNSWICK 9-1 IN IVY DAY GAME

White too Much for Garnet Batters—Inability to Hit in the Pinches Keeps Bates from Scoring.

McElwee and Goodskey Star for Bowdoin—Harvey Gets Three Hits in Four Trips to the Plate.

Enthusiastic Bunch of Bates Rooters Gives Team Good Support.

Bowdoin defeated Bates in the annual Ivy Day game last Friday at Brunswick by a score of 9 to 1. The Bowdoin team played good ball and White was nearly as effective against the Bates batters as Savage had been in the game here. There is little doubt that had Bowdoin put up such a game against the other colleges her position in the won and lost column would be far different.

Bates played a fairly good fielding game, two of the errors being due to the bright noonday sun. The game was lost, however, by the inability of the Garnet batters to hit and especially their weakness in this department when hits meant runs.

The Bowdoin team may have completely outshone ours, but our cheering squad was very much in evidence. A special car was run to Brunswick and the Bates men had a section in the stand to themselves. Here they gave their cheers and sang the Bates Song in a manner that would add to the honor of any college. No matter what the play was, whether someone fanned with two men on or whether Bowdoin hits began to crash right and left, the Bates men stood by their team. The whole game only goes to show that Bates will support her representatives whether they win or lose, play gilded baseball or go down to hopeless defeat.

The day was a big day for Bowdoin and a large crowd witnessed the contest. The Bowdoin band did great work, while the Bates men were given a great hand for their singing of the Bates Song.

Bowdoin early clinched their hold on the game and before the end of the fourth inning were eight runs ahead. Woodman lifted the ball over the short right field fence with two men on bases in the first inning. McElwee and Goodskey did some heavy hitting for Bowdoin, but the only Bates man to shine with the bat was Harvey with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Purvere worked 3½ innings for Bates, but a combination of hits and errors caused his retirement. Fowler then went in and twirled good ball for the rest of the game. He had had very little opportunity to work this season, but has always responded with a brand of pitching that would hold good with any ordinary hitting team.

White tightened up with men on bases and Bates lost several good chances to score, Talbot fanning in the sixth with two men on and hit into a double play in the eighth with the bases crowded. Bowdoin took all kinds of chances with their early lead and several times fell easy victims on the paths.

Bates got her lone run in the ninth. With one down, Harvey got his third single, took second on a passed ball and went to third on a single by Stone, who again made good as a pinch hitter. Davis hit into a forceout but Harvey scored. The summary:

JUNIOR GIRLS TAKE BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

SENIORS SWAMPED 15 TO 1 IN FINAL CONTEST AND 1917 CAPTURE BANNER FOR SECOND TIME IN TWO YEARS

Victors Get 21 Hits to Losers Lone Bingle

One of the best exhibitions of the year took place Saturday afternoon on the Young Women's Athletic Field when the Junior young women defeated the Seniors in baseball by a score of 15-1. Miss Skinner, the Junior pitcher, was in splendid form, and she and Miss Moody, the catcher, worked together in perfect harmony. The Seniors should be congratulated on their sportsmanlike attitude, and the Juniors for their perfect courtesy. This game was the last in the championship series, and the Baseball Banner goes to the Junior girls for the second year.

EDWIN PURINTON WINS TENNIS TITLE OF MAINE

ARTHUR PURINTON, CAPTAIN OF BATES CHAMPIONSHIP DOUBLES TEAM, DEFEATED IN STRAIGHT SETS

Match to Decide Singles Title Played Off on College Courts

To the class of 1919 goes the lion's share of the honor of bringing one championship to the college for the year. Edwin Purinton, '19, is now the tennis singles champion of the colleges of the state after winning a match from his brother, Arthur Purinton, '17, by the score of 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

The men had won their way into the finals of the singles play at Maine when they won the doubles championship. The match for the singles title was played off on the Bates courts last Thursday. This makes a clean sweep for Bates, a thing that has not happened before for years. Both Captain Purinton and Edwin will be awarded tennis "B's" for their fine work.

Neither of the men showed as good tennis as a more vital contest might have called forth, yet some of the services of Arthur and overhead volleys of Edwin whistled along in a way that made the other brother worry a bit. Some excellent plays were made although most of the points were scored on nets and outs. Edwin played the more consistently and had the match well in hand most of the time. Captain Purinton made a rally in the last set and won three successive games, one at love, but Edwin came back with a love game and the four more necessary to secure the title. The point score:

	First Set	Second Set	Third Set
A. Purinton	4 6 1 2 4 2 0 2 1—3—22	4 6 1 2 4 4 4 4—6—31	1 5 0 7 4 8 2—1—27

Total—Games, E. Purinton 18, A. Purinton 7. Points, E. Purinton 102, A. Purinton 68.

JUNIOR GIRLS VICTORIOUS IN TRACK MEET SECURING CHAMPIONSHIP BANNER FOR THIRD SUCCESSIVE YEAR

Total of 31½ Points Easily Defeats Freshmen and Sophomores

The Junior class easily won the banner from the Freshman and Sophomore classes last Thursday afternoon with a total score of 31½ points. The Freshmen obtained second place with 10½ points; and the Sophomores brought up the rear with 5 points. This is the third successive year that the Juniors have won the track championship and this year's victory entitles them to have their numerals on the silver cup in the charge of the Athletic Association. This cup was given by Miss Edna B. Manship, a former physical director, and is to go to the class which has its numerals on it for two successive years. Coach Ryan acted as referee, and Prof. R. A. F. McDonald as official timekeeper.

The results of the events were as follows:

Standing broad jump, Aileen Lougee '17, 7 feet ½ inch; Amy Tozier '18, 6 feet 6½ inches; running broad jump, Amy Tozier '18, 11 feet, 1 inch; Ida Millay '19, 11 feet; Annie May Brewer '18, 10 feet, 11 inches, the record raised afterward by Miss Tozier to 11 feet 2½ inches; basket ball throw, Ruth Moody '17, 59 feet, 9¼ inches, Ruth Skinner '17, 48 feet, 9¼ inches, Ruth Skinner '17, 47 feet ½ inch; running high jump, Ada Bell Kennan '19, 3 feet 8 inches, Aileen Lougee '17, Francis Gaelelon '19, Evelyn Manchester '17, tied at 3 feet 7 inches; standing high jump, Aileen Lougee '17, 3 feet; shot put, Grace Berry '17, 32 feet 8 inches, Esther Green '17, 32 feet 7¼ inches; Laura Nelson '17, 31 feet 4½ inches;

LAST VESPER SERVICE OF YEAR HELD IN CHAPEL

DR. GOODRICH OF BOWDOIN COLLEGE CHURCH SPEAKS ON "EXPERIENCES IN PARIS DURING THE CONFLICT BETWEEN CHURCH AND STATE"

The last Vesper Service of the year was held in the chapel last Sunday afternoon, with the following program: Organ Prelude—"Romanza"

Dr. C. W. Goodrich, pastor of the Bowdoin College Congregational church, was the speaker. He gave an interesting talk on his experiences as pastor of the American church in Paris where he officiated for six years. During the period of his pastorate there occurred the separation between church and State. To us, who have never been accustomed to consider our pastors a part of the civil authority, this seems a relatively small matter, but to them it was extremely important.

When it became known that the Catholics had agreed to adjust themselves to the secular authority, there was great rejoicing among the people, who said they would then have a free church in a free state "like America." But just on the eve of fulfillment came a summary order from the Pope to make no adjustment to the laws and to ask no privileges of the civil authorities. This unfortunate attitude resulted in a great defection from the church. The government was exasperated and became unjust, even going so far as to remove pictures of religious institutions and all references to God from school books, in an attempt to "neutralize" them. Officials did not dare to attend church for fear of being suspected of personal preference.

For a time only about 6,000,000 out of a population of 39,000,000 attended church, but this fact does not justify the charge that France is an irreligious nation. On the contrary, the French people are fundamentally religious, intensely interested in religious matters even when they must disagree with the church. They consider religious feeling a matter between the individual heart and God. Their intellectual leaders, to whose influence they have always been peculiarly susceptible, sanction faith in God.

At present France is experiencing a reaction from her religious defection. In this war, she has declared herself a religious nation. Men in the trenches are extremely anxious to secure tracts, hymns and other religious literature. The "Chant Titanique," a French (Continued on Page Two)

BATES AND THE MONEY QUESTION

Bates has always occupied a unique position among colleges in general in that she has endeavored to make it possible for the man of moderate and even of limited means to secure an education upon equal terms with the man to whom the necessity for earning his own living has never been anything more than a mere fancy. A strong and steadfast adherence to this policy throughout her history has resulted in the formation of ideals which if upheld in the future as they have been upheld in the past will forever keep Bates from being classed as "a rich man's college." We pride ourselves on our democracy, and the justification for this pride rests primarily on the fact that we as a college are unwilling to judge a man's worth from the amount of wealth he may possess or from the position he may hold in polite society. With us money does not count; one man is as good as another as far as the possession of this world's goods is concerned. In a college where such thoroughly democratic principles prevail, one would naturally expect to find a large number of men who are entirely dependent upon their own resources for the securing of an education. This is especially true at Bates. There is scarcely a man in college who is not at least paying a part of his expenses by his own efforts. But while many are aware of the general fact that Bates students are self-supporting, few realize to what a great extent this is true. The purpose of this article is to throw a little light on the financial side of college life by showing some of the ways in which Bates is aiding deserving students in their efforts to secure for themselves the advantages of a college education.

The opportunities which Bates opens to her students for earning the whole or a part of their college expenses come largely through the Department of Student Self Help. The work offered by this department may be divided into three general classes. The first class is under the direct personal supervision of the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds and is known as the Department of Employment on Grounds and Buildings. The work of this department is sub-divided under three heads: (1) Mechanical Work, such as the care of the heating, lighting and water systems; (2) Repair and Upkeep Work, such as carpentry, plumbing, electric wiring, cabinet making, etc.; (3) Janitor Service in and about the various college buildings. During the college year the Department of Employment on Grounds and Buildings has furnished work to nearly fifty men who have earned $2,900.00.

The second general class is under the direction of the College Commons, and the work offered consists of table-waiting, kitchen service, and general management. The men employed in this department have earned about $2,500.00 during the college year.

The third general class of employment is administered and carried on by the Y. M. C. A. Employment Bureau. The work offered consists of odd jobs about the campus and in the cities of Lewiston and Auburn. About ninety men have been employed in this way during the college year.

It will be remembered that sometime ago a questionnaire was drawn up under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. and circulated among the men in chapel at conference hour. One hundred and sixty-nine men either gave complete or partial answers to the questions asked in this questionnaire, showing that they had worked either during semesters or during vacations, or both. Of this 169, 119 have worked during both semesters and vacations; 25 have worked during semesters only; and 25 during vacations only. The earnings of these men during vacations amounts to $8,512.22; and their earnings during semesters to $8,699.08. This gives a total of $17,211.30 which the students who have reported have earned during semesters and vacations. Many students failed to answer the questionnaire, thus we have no record of their earnings.

The following is a list of occupations engaged in by students during semesters: Journalism, preaching, substitute teaching, furnace tending, carpenter work, library assistant, faculty assistant, store clerk, gymnasium aid, table waiter, boxing instructor, manager of commons, proctor, reading gas meters, tutor, railroad mail clerk, public reader, tailor's agent, chapel monitor, gas inspector, firing boilers, kitchen work, removing ashes, typewriting, bell ringer, nurse, errand boy, newspaper reporter, bank clerk, music teacher, undertaker's assistant.

The following is a list of occupations engaged in by students during vacations: Mill work, road breaking, guide in Maine woods, farming, hotel work, ball playing, teamster, brick maker, book agent, chauffeur, elevator boy, post office clerk, machinist, painter, guard in Maine State prison, electric car conductor, telephone operator, bill collector.

The foregoing lists are far from complete, but they give some idea of the wide range of occupations in which Bates men are engaged. Equally interesting and instructive statistics might be given in regard to the young women of the college.

OBSERVANT CITIZEN

A fine ovation was given President Chase Tuesday morning as he entered the chapel after a long absence.

Citizens residing in the vicinity of the college say it is a privilege to live in this end of the city and look out on our beautiful campus.

In some sections of the country golf may be a sport for Sunday, but considering that the game at Bates is yet young, let us confine it to the secular days of the week.

In a regular game of golf eight different clubs are used. The average distance that a ball can be driven is 200 yards and the strokes are modified to suit the occasion.

Two good-looking girls of the Sophomore class like the poem "Choice" so well that they wish to become better acquainted with its author. The poem is in the latest magazine section of the Student.

The best recommendation for the band is that it has been engaged to play at the Sandman Track Meet next Saturday.

The boys who mow lawns are having some amusing experiences with their employers. They complain of dull grass-cutters and say that hazards belong properly to golf links.

The Y. M. C. A. employment bureau may put you on the track of any job at any wage if you consult it—then again it may not.

Occupations range from sellers of aluminum ware to harvesters in the grain fields of the great Northwest.

Apparently the only flag we have in our thought flew over a United States gunboat in the Spanish-American war. This is why we are so choice of it. There should be a flagpole on the campus.

Prof. Pomeroy will be the official representative of Bates at the dedication of buildings at M. I. T. next week. "Pom" is a good practical business man and was never caught napping.

Isn't it just as sensible for Seniors to carry canes as to wear stick pins in their ties or rings on their fingers? All the colleges are doing it, but canes, plug hats, and swallow-tail coats at Bates were abandoned several years ago.

Is it going too far to say that men who speak most lightly of Northfield know least about it? It is safe to venture that three-fourths of us don't know where Northfield is.

There is money to give and money to loan to men who wish to go to this great student conference.

Lately attendance at chapel has been unusually large.

Our choir is decidedly weak in soprano and tenor.

Much extraneous matter has been read into the rules governing the drawing of rooms. It is reported that three Freshmen were so condescending as to walk into the superintendent's office and advance their interpretation of certain stipulations laid down in the "Revised Regulations and Price List," showing that there is always plenty of advice to be had from those not in authority.

Hundreds of dollars are due the treasurer on extended board bills. Every bill is due June 15, before examinations.

At least the Brandeis case is settled, the new justice has taken the oath of office, and students of history and government rejoice that this matter will never again appear in their lists of current events.

When you consult the table of cuts, the greatest consolation will come in the fact that somebody is worse off than you, except in one instance.

Are you allowing yourself a good number of cuts for next semester, when you file your electives?

Is it true that two of the professors have already handed their ranks to the registrar?

More will take place the next two weeks than has occurred during the whole year.

The alumni rooms now boast of a picture of Bates' only championship track team. Go over and look at it.

The librarian and her assistants will undoubtedly save much time by placing a plan of the stack room in a conspicuous place, as has been done, but someone must always be near by to explain the diagram. To avoid making this explanation, the librarian must either turn the chart upside down or you must stand on your head to interpret it correctly.

By the time 1920 graduates, College street will perhaps be fit for traffic once more.

The price of shoes is going up. One way to beat the shoe-dealers, is to vigorously oppose the use of such material as the up-to-date authorities of the city of Lewiston use for making sidewalks. We should at least keep the abominable stuff off our campus.

translation of our familiar "Nearer My God to Thee," has become very popular among the soldiers. In the present great struggle, the supreme test of the moral and religious fabric of warring nations, we are most naturally interested and encouraged by the admirable qualities shown by France, the one great republic comparable to our own.

The music by the choir was especially good, and Mr. Davis' violin solos were much enjoyed.

HON. RALPH W. CROCKETT ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A. ON "THE CHRISTIAN CHALLENGE OF LAW"

Ideals Are Necessary for Success

One more of the series of lectures on the Christian challenge to the various professions was given at the Y. M. C. A. meeting of May 31. At that time Ralph W. Crockett of Lewiston presented "The Christian Challenge of Law." One of his opening sentences was "Every man of normal intelligence has his ideals." He went on to say that a large number of people live more in what they would like to be than in what they are. All have dreams of what they would like to be. The best and noblest of men have looked to high ideals. The highest ideal is Christ. The world respects the Christian. Christianity is an element of strength and manliness, not the opposite. The man who does, lives, thinks right is the one who achieves true success. The church stands for an ideal. The ideals of the Christian and the church should be the ideals of every profession. The mainstays of Christianity are the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. One of its principle elements is service, "for by service we grow, by service we gain strength, by service we gain character, by service we become better citizens."

Law is primarily founded on justice. When laws cease to be just, they have no right to exist. Upon admission to the bar, the lawyer takes the oath to uphold the constitution and laws of the United States. He must be faithful to the court, the client, and the claims of truth and honesty. A lawyer's success depends largely upon his relations to his brother lawyers. The good opinion of the lawyers is a tower of strength. The lawyer owes much to his client. He must do his best for the client. A lawyer must first and last be a good man. No profession holds out brighter or better paid prospects. It may seem full but there is always room at the top. It has been and will be a power in forming public opinion because of its ideals.

FRESHMAN GIRLS PRESENT THE THREE ACT DRAMA "LUCIA'S LOVER"

Cast of Characters and Synopsis of Play

The Freshman girls' play, "Lucia's Lover," given Saturday night in Hathorn Hall, proved a great success, and was worthy of a much larger audience. The scene of the play was a girls' boarding school. The cast was as follows:

Polly Chandler (who loves cats).....
.....Catherine Woodbury
Mildred Chase.....Ernestine Wright
Katherine Stanton.....Imogene Smith
Edith Lee (a Southern girl).....
.....Vida Stevens
Marcia Summers (a little older than the others).....Carrie Place
Lucia Lovering (a love-lorn lass).....
.....Ada Bell Kennan
Miss McGregor (a teacher).....
.....Izetta Wolfe
Mrs. Goldthwaite (a widow with an only son)
Chauncey (an adopted child)

The first act takes place in Polly's room, where the girls are planning to hold a ten o'clock spread. From their conversation we learn that Lucia Lovering has been receiving mysterious letters and gifts from a young man. Edith Lee admits that she knows something about them but refuses to reveal the secret until later. The girls unanimously decide that something should be done to cure their sentimental friend, but the dinner bell interrupts their plans.

Act two gives the spread. Lucia is besieged with questions concerning her lover and finally confides that she has never really seen him, but that he was impressed with her appearance on one occasion and wrote her a note, "quite respectful of course" asking her, if she were not angry, to wear jonquils the next day. Since then they had exchanged countless letters and love-tokens. Edith suddenly produces a letter which throws poor Lucia into despair. It informs her that Mrs. Donald M. Goldthwaite has learned of her son's affair with her, and that she intends to call the next morning to recover the letters. After Lucia leaves, Edith reveals herself to the girls as both Mrs. Goldthwaite and her son, Lucia's lover.

Scene three takes place in the reception room. The girls have cut classes in order to be present at the interview, and are hidden about the room. Edith Lee, alias Mrs. Goldthwaite, comes in heavily veiled and distributes Lucia's letters among the girls who are to shower them upon her at the proper time. Lucia is summoned, and after vain entreaties that her parents may not know of the affair, produces two armfuls of letters from her lover. Her distress is very amusing to the audience, especially when she and the widowed mother sob aloud together. Suddenly the other girls creep up and as the letters pour about her, Edith reveals herself to the agonized Lucia. The latter is so relieved that she forgets to be angry, and declares herself completely cured of her sentimentality. Miss Stevens, as Edith Lee, and Miss Kennan as Lucia, did especially well. Chauncey, Polly's adopted kitten, created amusing diversions, but was a remarkably well-behaved ward.

Between acts Miss Gladys Skelton sang a soprano solo, "Promise Me," and Miss Mary Louise Newcomer gave an excellent rendering of Uncle Remus' story, "Br'er Fox and the Hoss." The ushers were: Vera Milliken, Anne May Chappell, Faith Fairfield, Gladys Hartshorn, Marion Dannels, and Gladys Holmes. Miss Ruth Cummings had charge of the tickets, and candy was sold by Hazel Hutchins and Mary Hodgdon.

PHILHELLENIC CLUB

Prof. Stanton Speaks on the Composition of the Iliad and Odyssey

The Philhellenic Club held its monthly meeting Thursday evening, May 25, in Roger Williams Chapel. The meeting was open to all students of Latin and Greek, and was unusually successful and inspiring.

The first number on the program was a piano duet by Miss King and Mr. Upham. Then Mr. Clifford read from the "Iliad," that magnificent piece of literature, the parting scene between Hector and Andromache. Mr. Watkins sang "Genevieve" in a most acceptable manner, and after his solo, Prof. Stanton, the speaker of the evening, was introduced.

Prof. Stanton began his address by a brief review of the composition of the Iliad and the Odyssey. He gave what he said was to him a conclusive proof that the Iliad and Odyssey were written by different men. "The Odyssey," he said, "magnifies the dog, while the Iliad magnifies the horse and treats of the dog as a prowling, skulking cur." Professor Stanton next voiced the sentiment that teachers and parents should be led to see the importance of bringing children up with pets because it would make them gentle and tender-hearted. He then cited various amusing instances of the intelligence of animals. One instance was especially noteworthy. He told of his brother's being away from home and coming to visit him on the farm. The two men went after the cow, and Prof. Stanton went ahead to let down the pasture bars. The cow halted in the middle of the road and looked first at one brother and then the other, with a look of almost human intelligence, as if she were saying to herself, "Here are two men who look almost exactly alike, but one of them is my old friend and the other a stranger."

Prof. Stanton then voiced his belief in the immortality of animals, citing various authorities who confirmed his belief. The whole address was quaint, witty, and inspiring. The audience must certainly have gone home with something to think about for weeks to come.

SENIOR CLASS GIVEN FAREWELL RECEPTION BY THE Y. W. AND Y. M. C. A.'S

The reception given last Friday evening to the Senior class by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.'s proved to be a very enjoyable affair. Roger Williams Hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the decorations being in gray and garnet, the Senior colors. Speeches were given by President Stillman, '16, of the Y. M. C. A., Harlene Kane, '16, who spoke in behalf of Mona Hodnett, '16, president of the Y. W. C. A., President-elect Purinton, '17, of the Y. M. C. A., and Ruth Lewis, '17, president-elect of the Y. W. C. A. Mr. Bacon, '17, gave a reading and music was furnished by Renwick, '18, and Misses Ingersoll, '18, Shapleigh, '19, and Hussey, '18. Following the program refreshments were served. Prof. and Mrs. McDonald and Prof. and Mrs. Harms were the chaperones of the evening. Much credit for the success of the affair is due the committee in charge, Carl Stone, '17, and Miss Laura Mansfield, '18.

BATES MUSICAL CLUBS

Annual Banquet and Elections Took Place at Commons Last Thursday Night

The Bates Musical Association signified the close of the season by the usual annual banquet and business session at the College Commons last Thursday night. Chef Kierstead served a fine shore dinner which everyone thoroughly enjoyed. After the business session, including the election of officers for next year, Toastmaster Theodore E. Bacon, '17, toasted William Cummings, leader of the Mandolin Club during the past year; George T. Pendelow, the new leader; Perley W. Lane, leader of the Glee Club; Roger Fiske, new manager of the combined clubs; Paul Nichols; Morton Wiggin, manager of the band; and Prof. Hertell, who usually accompanies the clubs on their trips.

During the business session the following leaders were elected for next year: Leader of Glee Club, Perley W. Lane; leader of Mandolin Club, George T. Pendelow; manager of combined clubs, Roger B. Fiske. The new officers of the association are: President, Perley W. Lane, '17; vice-president, R. E. Purinton, '17; secretary, Dyke Quackenbush, '18; treasurer, Herbert Canfield, '18; executive committee, Theodore Bacon, '17, Smith, '19, Jordan, '19, and Googins, '18.

LOST AND FOUND BUREAU

The Lost and Found Bureau was now in good running operation. Losers of articles will find it to their advantage to report losses to the member of the committee in his dormitory or at the Y. M. C. A. office. Finders of valuables will accommodate students and faculty by turning in their "finds" to some member of the bureau. A list of such articles on hand will be posted on the library bulletin board Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

SPOFFORD CLUB

At its last meeting, Spofford Club was the guest of Professor Baird at his home on Main street. There was a brief but interesting program by three of the newly-elected members: Miss Leathers read an informal essay, "On the Importance of Being Serious;" Mr. Condy presented a poem, "Team Play;" and Mr. Quimby a philosophical treatise on "The Incompatibility of Modern Methods of Teaching Athletics—" etc. The after meeting was social and informal. After the refreshments the host was given a vote of thanks for his hospitality, and then was called on for a speech. He spoke for a few minutes on the development of Spofford Club and the opportunities for increased work in the future. Following Professor Baird's suggestion, the Senior members of the club next gave two minute talks, greeting the new members and telling of the needs and opportunities. The Bates Song and cheers for the host concluded a very pleasant evening.

The demonstration in chapel Tuesday morning showed that we are all glad to have President Chase with us once more.

It will be well for us to bear in mind that registration cards must be made out and handed in not later than Monday, June 12.

Students who wish scholarships for next year should make application before June 15.

Now that the pleasant weather has sounded the death knell of roller skating, checkers and other indoor sports, the popular fancy has turned to golf. This is Bates' latest pastime, and at all hours of the day the would-be golfer may be seen digging up the turf and threatening the lives of innocent pedestrians.

The men have drawn for rooms for next year with the result that all the dormitory rooms, open to upperclassmen are taken, and many students are left without rooms. There were scarcely any of the members of the class of 1919 who secured rooms, and as John Bertram Hall, where they have lived this year is reserved entirely for the incoming class, it now appears that many of the men will be forced to live outside of college next year. This is an unfortunate situation, and brings out with greater emphasis than ever, the need of another dormitory at Bates.

Our baseball team was well supported on its trips last week. Seventy-five royal rooters went by special car to the Ivy Day game at Brunswick, while on the following day another special car carried about forty men to the Colby exhibition game at Gardiner. With such demonstrations of loyalty as this, our teams certainly cannot complain of lack of student support.

The class of 1917 has elected its officers for next year.

Clarence Gould, '18, spent Sunday at his home in Greene.

Harold Cloutman, '16, was umpire at the Kents Hill-Hebron baseball game, Saturday.

William Davidson, '18, and Philip Talbot, '19, spent Sunday at their homes in Gardiner.

Earle Harvey, '19, spent the week-end at his home in Augusta.

The Mirror Board which will edit the 1917 Mirror has been chosen.

The annual banquet and business meeting of the Men's Musical Association was held Thursday evening at the Commons.

Alton Bush, '17, and Donald Stevens, '18, are spending a week in Boston.

The College Quartet sang at the Memorial services of the Knights of Pythias last Sunday evening.

Newton Larkum, '19, has recently changed his rooming place.

Exams begin a week from tomorrow.

At a meeting of the Sophomore class held Monday noon, Merton C. White was elected class marshal.

The guests of a recent Cheney House party delightfully entertained their hostesses with a picnic last Thursday afternoon. The scene of the jollification was the popular outing place on the Androscoggin river. Two merry hours were spent in games and storytelling before supper was served by "Chef White" and his assistants. The excellent food and dainty service demonstrated the fact that a "good feed" does not always require the "woman's hand"—except indirectly, perhaps. Mr. White's coffee was especially good—and effective. Supper was followed by cheers and songs until eight o'clock, when, in the best of spirits, the party returned home. Prof. and Mrs. McDonald chaperoned the party, and as they invariably do, contributed much to the merry-making.

Dean Buswell and Miss Craighead entertained the Senior girls at breakfast on Mt. David last Friday morning. Each girl's work was assigned to her in a novel manner. Directions were written on a slip of paper, pinned to a maple leaf with a toothpick. The girls had first to interpret their orders, and then obey them. One young woman was told to be a good republican and support the protective policy. This she correctly decided, meant that she was to pass the napkins. Dr. Jordan was guest of honor. Breakfast consisted of strawberries, bacon and eggs, sand-

The finals in tennis doubles were played off between the Seniors and Juniors Friday morning, resulting in a victory for the Seniors. The players were Miss Alice King, '16, Miss Flora Warren, '16, Miss Grace Berry, '17, and Miss Ruth Moody, '17.

The Bates Y. W. C. A. will be represented this year at Silver Bay by a large delegation. Those attending will be Misses Burtra Dresser, Mary Cleaves, Reba Sawyer, Elinor Newman, Sara Reed and Ruth Lewis. The Silver Bay fund, realized mainly from Tag Day and the Irish play, will be used to partly pay the expenses of two delegates, one of whom is Miss Newman, the other to be chosen soon. Bates has never had more than five girls at Silver Bay before and she is fortunate this year to be able to send so large a delegation to represent the interests here.

Prof. Stanton accompanied his bird class on the last trip of the season last Saturday afternoon. With Dean Buswell as guest of honor, a group of about twenty young men and women went to Crowley's Junction, where, after a very pleasant tramp, they enjoyed a luncheon of milk and apples from Mr. Hussey's farm.

Miss Celia Smith, '17, entertained her former classmate, Miss Elsie Leach, at her home in Hallowell over the week-end.

Miss Marion Hutchins, '16, has recently been at her home in Portland.

Miss Myrtle McIntyre, '18, spent a few days in Portland last week.

Miss Alice Havey, '18, spent the week-end in Portland with her mother who had been visiting her at college for a few days.

The New Hampshire Club has made the following nominations for officers: President, Ruth Skinner, '17, Agnes Burnett, '17; vice-president, Mildred Jenkins, '18, Ruth Dresser, '18; secretary-treasurer, Evelyn Varney, '19, Gladys Holmes, '19.

The Bates Sunday school class of the Hammond street Methodist church gave an entertainment in the church Friday evening. The following program was presented: Cornet solo, Robert Jordan, '19; song, "Spring," quartet, Charles Chayer, '17, Herbert Canfield, '18, Miss Celia Smith, '17, Miss Evan Sheren, '19; reading, Miss Blanche Wright, '18; cornet solo, Robert Jordan, '19; read-

An informal reception was given the students and faculty of the college in Roger Williams Hall Friday evening in honor of the Senior class.

Miss Craighead's class in bacteriology paid a visit to Dr. Ness' dairy in Auburn Friday afternoon. After an inspection of the dairy which proved very interesting the girls enjoyed a picnic supper of sandwiches, potato chips, salad, cake, nuts, lemonade, and an abundance of milk from the farm. Mrs. W. H. Hartshorn, Miss Ethel Cutts and Miss Nola Houdlett were guests at the supper.

The Mandolin club has elected Miss Ruth Chapman, '18, leader of the club for the following year, and Miss Elinor Newman, '17, manager.
